
From: ScholarGPS - News <scholargpsnews@gmail.com>

Sent: Saturday, September 30, 2023 8:37 PM

To: nori@umich.edu

Subject: ScholarGPS ranks Professor Nori No. 3

Dear Professor Nori,

Congratulations! You have achieved the ScholarGPS Number 3 ranking in Physics among all academic scholars in the United States. This impressive achievement is based on the scholarly activity in your Discipline over the last five years, and therefore celebrates your recent scholarly contributions. Click on the following link and choose the appropriate options on the left panel to see rankings of other Highly Ranked Scholars in your Discipline for either the lifetime or the last-five-year evaluation period:

<https://scholargps.com/highly-ranked-scholars>

ScholarGPS is a California-based company that harnesses artificial intelligence including data mining, machine learning, and other data science techniques to rank over 30 million individual scholars and over 55,000 academic and non-academic institutions worldwide. Rankings are available for All Fields of scholarly endeavor combined; in each of 14 Fields ranging from Medicine to Law to Engineering; in each of 177 Disciplines such as Mechanical Engineering or Chemistry; and in over 350,000 unique Specialties. Institutional Rankings in Fields, Disciplines, and Specialties are based on the rankings and quantity of individual active scholars in each institution who are (i) highly productive (number of publications) and have (ii) generated outstanding work of meaningful impact (number of citations) and excellent quality (h-index).

Please visit: <https://scholargps.com/> for more details.

Sincerely,

The ScholarGPS Team